

Technical Assistant

Hey there!

Bedlam Theatre is one of the best venues at Edinburgh Fringe, for staff, shows, and theatre-goers alike. Each year, Bedlam is dedicated to ensuring all its shows are executed to the highest possible standard. The Technical Assistant's role is absolutely essential to making sure Bedlam continues to deliver top-class technical service to all of the shows performing in the venue. This covers everything from running transitions smoothly, dealing with technical emergencies smartly and efficiently, and generally ensuring the performers are pleased with the quality of service they receive.

The main duties you will need to fulfil are as follows:

- Assist with show turnarounds
- Be on call and in the building during shows in case any emergencies arise
- Help prepare the building for Fringe
- Assist companies with the venue's technical equipment

Desired:

- Previous experience in, and knowledge of, technical theatre
- A positive attitude towards Bedlam and a desire to make the venue the best it can be
- A willingness to work in a team environment
- Strong interpersonal and communication skills
- The ability to work and remain calm under stressful and time-pressure conditions
- Flexibility in terms of working hours and shift patterns
- The ability to take initiative and follow orders when the respective times arise

The position will be full time from the beginning of July until the end of August, but it is desirable if the candidate is available for part-time work in the beginning of June.

To apply please email your CV and cover letter to tech@bedlamfringe.co.uk by 5pm on April 6th.
